Father Paul V. Leibold, an alumnus of the University of Dayton in the class of 1936, has been named Chancellor the Cincinnati Archdiocese, according to an announcement made by the Most Reverend John T. FORMER U.D. ATHLETE ORDAINED IN DOMINICAN ORDER

Rev. P. T. Froendhoff, O.P.
as a Dominican priest

(Editor's note: The following article written by Alvin Rosensweet, staff writer for the Dayton Herald, appeared in that paper on June 3. The author recalls and relates experiences as he knew Father Froendhoff, O.P., during his activities at the University of Dayton. The many favorable comments which have come to my desk gave impetus to sharing the story with all members of the Alumni Association. The editor would like to express her appreciation to Mr. Rosensweet for the privilege of using it in the Alumnus.)

by Alvin Rosensweet

Maybe this story doesn't belong on the sports pages. It's about Paul Froendhoff, whom I used to write about when he was playing Class A amateur baseball and University of Dayton basketball.

Maybe somebody else, other than this writer who is of the Jewish faith, ought to be writing it. Because the story is that tomorrow Rev. Paul Timothy Froendhoff will be ordained as a priest by the Dominican Fathers at River Forest, Ill., and on Sunday he will offer his first solemn mass at the Church of the Resurrection, his parish on Dayton's West Side.

When this one-time .300 hitter and high scoring basketball ace dons the white robes of the Dominican Order it will mark the end of one road in his life and the beginning of another. Already, in the rigorous curriculum of the Dominican order, one of the most profound in all the Catholic Church, he has earned his Doctor of Philosophy degree. After his ordination Rev. Froendhoff will return to the Dominican House of Studies for another year of study in theology.

Possibly it was a difficult choice when young Froendhoff, then 21, decided to enter the Monastic Order founded by St. Dominic in 1208. His father, a retired lieutenant in the Dayton fire department, makes no secret of the fact that at one time he wanted Paul to become a big-league ball player. In that case it would read "Paul Froendhoff, 2b" instead of "Rev. Paul Timothy Froendhoff, O.P." for Order of Preachers.

Froendhoff was hitting .333 for Acme Pattern and Tool in the Class A amateur league when he left for the priesthood. Even his own teammates, fighting for the league title, didn't know that he was going. Then one Sunday he didn't show up for a game and the next his clubmates knew he was in Chicago preparing for a lifetime of service in the Church.

Ever since he was twelve years old and played in the Fire Department Baseball League, Froendhoff was interested in sports. He graduated into Class B and then Class A. At Roosevelt High School he played forward on two city championship teams and one state championship team.

His parents have a scrapbook showing Paul hitting .471 in Kids League. Then he played a few games with the Boys Club in Class B, and shortly afterward joined Sam's Sweet Shop in the Class A circuit. He was probably the youngest player in Class A. Later he played with Finke's, and Acme.

One year he went through the entire Class A season without striking out and box scores from his amateur days show he frequently collected two or three hits. The "thin man" as he is sometimes called, weighed only 140 pounds and wasn't a power hitter, but he got his share of ringing singles, usually over a surprised second baseman's head.

At the University of Dayton he specialized in basketball, playing forward most of the time and a little at guard. He played U.D. basketball in the 1939-1940 and 1940-41 season. In 1940 he scored 14 points against a top notch Miami team at Oxford. A couple of weeks later when Miami returned to the Coliseum it was Froendhoff who scored 4 fast field goals and a foul to bring the Flyers up to a tie with the Redskins.

He was on the U.D. team that made an Eastern swing and turned in one of the major surprises of the

as Paul Froendhoff, 2b

1939-40 season, a victory over a high scoring Rhode Island team that considered it an off night if it didn't ring up 70 points. He played second base on the U.D. baseball team, and was lead off man in the batting order.

But his activities at the U.D. weren't confined to athletics. Paul became president of the Debating Club, and maintained a high scholastic average.

When he left Dayton in July 1941, it was the last time, for seven years, that he got a look at Dayton, where he moved from Philadelphia, his birthplace, at the age of one year. One of the requisites of the Dominican Order is that its members not return home while they are preparing for the priesthood.

Now he comes back as the first member of the Resurrection parish ever to be ordained a priest. That not only means satisfaction to his family but to his parish priest, Father John Stedman, as well. He comes back not as Paul Joseph Froendhoff, his given name, but as Rev. Paul Timothy Froendhoff. He took the name Timothy upon entering the Order.

The Solemn High Mass at 10:00 a.m. Sunday will be preceded by a procession. Father John P. Kenny, O.P., formerly on the U.D. faculty, will speak. Father Andrew Henry, a teacher at St. Pius High School, Chicago, will be deacon of the Mass, and Father Luke Lyons, of Chicago's Fenwick High School, will be subdeacon. A reception will be held at the Church from 3 to 6 p.m.

U. D. Scholarship Won by Daytonian

Miss Beverly Jean Whisler, a senior at Wilbur Wright High School, Dayton, was the recipient of a $100.00 scholarship to the University of Dayton. The award was made by the Junior Achievement, Inc., with John Spencer, director of Junior Achievement, Dayton, making the presentation.

The national Horace A. Moses Foundation of the Association presents approximately 1,000 such awards each year. The award was given to Miss Whisler for her outstanding achievements in the J. A. group.

Mayor Louis W. Lohrey proclaimed May 18 Achievement Day. The presentation of the scholarship was the sole feature of the day, recognizing achievement in this particular field.

The Junior Achievement Association is supported by industry and commerce with the objective of assisting and training young persons who form enterprises of their own. Supporters of these activities are convinced that this is one way "to teach free enterprise, American style."

ORDER YOUR TICKETS FOR GRID SEASON

At the last meeting of the University of Dayton Alumni Association Board of Directors, held May 26, 1948, Harry Baujan, Athletic Director and Bro. William Bellmer of the university's athletic department were guests of our board.

The purpose of their presence was to facilitate the sale of tickets for the Flyers' home games during the 1948 football season. Every effort is being made to reserve seats for alumni who are planning to return to the university for any or all games. This being the last issue of the Alumnus until October, we have decided that the members of the alumni association should be informed of the ticket situation for the coming season, and that every effort is being made to accommodate your needs and desires for tickets.

Mr. Baujan stated that this year 3500 season books will have been sold prior to the opening of the season. Also that 12 new boxes have been sold. A suggestion was made that in September a special mailing be sent to alumni again explaining the existing ticket problem, promoting the early purchasing of tickets in general and more particularly tickets for the Homecoming game on Nov. 13th.

The athletic director stated that he would be willing to RESERVE ADDITIONAL SEATS FOR ALUMNI UNTIL TWO WEEKS BEFORE THE RESPECTIVE GAME, and further that he would hold the remainder of the sections Y and Z on the south side (those seats which have not been sold in season books) until two weeks before the date of the Miami, St. Louis, and Homecoming games. St. Louis is scheduled for Oct. 24, Sunday afternoon; Miami for Saturday, Nov. 6, and Oklahoma City, the Homecoming game, on Nov. 13.

The single game prices are as follows: reserved seat for the Miami, St. Louis, and Oklahoma City games are $2.50; reserved seat for the Marshall, Iowa State Teachers games are $2.00. The price of a season book is $10.00. All prices quoted include Federal and State taxes.
